WE NOMINATE

John Rainer Bodo, one of the Princeton Community's most articulate and broad-gauged leaders, who this week submitted his resignation, effective next August 31st, as minister of the historic First Presbyterian Church of Princeton. The 14th distinguished clergyman to serve the church, which was organized even before ground was broken for Nassau Hall, the 38-year old Bodo will be relinquishing his post next summer to accept appointment as Professor of Practical Theology in the San Francisco Theological Seminary, a 300-student Presbyterian institution at San Anselmo, Calif.

In his 19th year as a minister, and in his eighth year of service to the First Church, Bodo is well qualified to accept the challenge of working on the church's "crucial frontier"—where ministers must be taught "to apply the basic insights of the academic disciplines to the all-important task of raising up churches of the people." He first planned to enter university or seminary teaching some 12-13 years ago and was a Teaching Fellow in Ecumenics at Princeton Seminary when in 1951 he was (in his own words) "sidetracked" by the First Church, following the death of Frank S. Niles.

Bodo's Princeton ministry has been, and will continue to be, an outstanding and stimulating one. In much the way a minister might use Biblical texts for his weekly sermons, Bodo's leadership and conception of the church are rooted in The Gospel According to John (III:16): "For God so loved the world." As a traditionally formal congregation, now numbering some 1,350 members, has reached out more and more into community life, its efforts and program have been shaped by Bodo's insistence that the church stands for "justice and compassion" for all, and as the "chosen instrument to redeem the world."

Just three years ago the Hungarian-born Bodo was honored (together with scientist Seymour M. Bogdonoff and Borough Mayor Raymond F. Male) by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of Princeton's first "Young Men of the Year" and was appropriately cited "for doing something about the Brotherhood of Man." During his pastorate, both in and beyond church circles, he has struggled for better understanding between different races and creeds, has helped widen the horizons of the Princeton Pastors' Association and has made possible the wider use of church facilities by non-church groups.

A naturalized American citizen since 1947, six years after he and his family reached the United States, Bodo has held both denominational and interdenominational offices. He is currently a member of the Presbyterian General Assembly Committee concerned with "a non-segregated church in a non-segregated society" and is a former member of the Board of Managers of the Radio-Television Department of the Presbyterian Church. Indicative of his capacity for the profession of scholarship was his excellent and, readable, doctoral dissertation, written at Princeton Seminary and subsequently published by the Princeton University Press under the title, "The Protestant Clergy and Public Issues: 1812-1848."

For constantly emphasizing that individual Christians "may neither ignore nor be neutral toward the forces of evil in the world"; for his abiding concern for making Princeton a better place in which to live; for solid, conscientious achievement; he is our nominee for

POLITICAL PICTURE
Few Hats in the Ring. A week from this Thursday, at 4 p.m., will be the deadline for filling petitions for the April primary elections. In the next seven days, both parties in Princeton Borough and Township will be hard at work to complete their slate, and along with the past decade's trend, primary contests are wholly unlikely.

With an "off year" in prospect (no office holder in other than state or national legislative races are at stake), the major parties may or will hold the spotlight. For the first time since Joseph S. Hoff held office in the early 'thirties, the Democrats are expected to lead with a ticket with an unusual line-up.

Major Raymond F. Male will seek another two-year term — in contrast to the only other Democrat to make the race, Maurice Male, who served in 1946 and '47 but did not stand for reelection.

For that same reason, the Republicans must dig deeper into their ranks than they have in recent years, since one veteran (six-time mayor Charles R. Erdman, Jr. has his hands full as Republican State Chairman) and former Council President Christian B. Johnson this week took himself out of the picture with an emphatic "No!". Likewise, not only unavailable for a possible upward move but also unlikely to be asked to run again at all is Maurice A. Mather, GOP councilman who resigned last week and left the Republicans with another vacancy.

Councilman Alfred E. Sorenson, who is completing the second of two non-consecutive terms, had no comment this week but is expected to be one of his party's candidates. Outgoing Mayor Maurice Male, a Democrat, had advanced no candidates as the filing week began but with a chance to achieve what may well be the first 60-60 representation possible in town, he was known to be working hard in the municipality, they were sure to take dead aim on maintaining voter confidence.

STEPPING DOWN: I. Russell Riker, Borough Engineer for a quarter century, this week announced plans to retire. (Story on page 3.)

Township Has Three Races. The show is on the other foot in Princeton Township, where the Republicans have a 4-1 majority and hope to maintain it by retaining the two committee seats which will be on the ballot. Ability to bring forth two strong candidates will be a real challenge to the underdog Democratic party, which has been successful at the polls twice in the past five years. The problem has found a major problem, however, in the Republican tide that normally gives every GOP candidate a solid majority.

The two-term terms expire are James G. Campbell, Jr. and John S. Mount. While neither had yet announced his candidacy for reelection, both men were in a position to remain in office if they'd stay. In the rapid turnover which has typified the Township political scene of late, no incumbent has sought reelection in the past three years.

One other Township office appears on the off-year ballot, that of tax collector. The incumbent is Republican Walter B. Foster, Jr.

MORE PARKING PLANNED
In Heart of Town. The Borough Planning Board, acting on expert advice, which it has spans three decades, has unanimously recommended that Mayor and Council take immediate steps to acquire for interior-lot parking the former Titus Motor Company property at the corner of Witherspoon and Tulane Streets.

"We were in 1929, in the original 'Black' report, that the development of interior-block parking in this area was first urged. In recent weeks, conversion of this property into a restaurant ("The Dining Room") and a cluster of off-street shops, has been rejected by the Zoning Board.

PERSONALITIES
John H. Wallace, Jr., 186 Library Place, fortnight president of Princeton Hospital, who this week took the unprecedented but wholly justifiable step of notifying the hospital board that he believes that they must take immediate steps to upgrade sharply their contributions to the Hospital. As a registered letter (see page 12 for complete text), the members of the Hospital Board were advised that unless the maximum contributions permitted by law are paid within ten days, needy patients of those municipalities will no longer be accepted here.

DROWNING AVOIDED

Quick Action Saves Boy. A race against death at close to a mile a minute down siren-clearled Nassau Street Monday afternoon, and the highest possible dividend. A 2½-year old boy's life was saved because police reached him in time after his mother had pulled him from a water-filled swimming pool.

Edward Baruch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fernand Baruch of 40 Deer Path, and pre-school age friends, had been drawn stick-like into the pool for a dozen or more ways in some manner still unknown to police, they had managed to open the high latch of the gate in a seven-foot fence surrounding the pool. The boy had been on property owned by Dr. Donald Kidde, 63 Deer Path.

Mrs. Baruch learned of the impending danger when her 4-year old son ran into the house: "Edward is in deep water!"

Mrs. Baruch went into water up to her shoulders to bring her son to safety. Seconds later, in response to her telephone call, Frank Maguire of the Borough Police Department was "riding interference" down Nassau Street for the Township to know he would follow shortly.

"The sirens sent drivers to the side of the street so that it looked almost deserted," one Township patrolman later stated. Anthony Nini and Michael Lisi of the Township arrived less than a minute after Patrolman Maguire, their rapid journey also aided by the traffic-clearing efforts of special school police along the route. Young Edward was blue in the face by the time oxygen capsules administered first at the scene and then when he was rushed to Princeton Hospital. But his condition went from "satisfactory" to "good" in a matter of hours and the effects of shock and exposure are now fully overcome.

PERSONNEL WORRIES

One Gone, One to Go. The Borough has suddenly been brought face-to-face with an unexpected, and unprecedented personnel crisis in its Engineering Department where since 1934, when the post of Borough Engineer was created, I. M. Riker has reigned supreme and has played most instruments — "The Music Man."

At Tuesday evening's meeting of the Planning Board, 2½ hours ago when he had discussed "vacation plans" with Mayor and Council at their monthly Agenda Preparation Session, the 66-year old engineer, who has served the Planning Board since its inception in 1937, announced: "I'm stepping down April 1, and won't be here for the meeting next month."

The laconic announcement of the veteran, state-wide-respected engineer, who first entered the Borough's employ in 1931 as Resident Engineer for the then-modest sewage system, confirmed a decision which had previously discussed with the three-member Public Works Committee (chaired by Councilman Sonnen) and with Mayor Male.

While Mr. Riker's retirement had been projected for this year, and provision had been made in the 1958 budget to hire him as a Borough consultant upon completion of an early and prolonged terminal leave, his sudden decision to "step down" exploded in the Council's ears like the roar of a firecracker in an empty incan.

Four days earlier, Mr. Riker's intended successor, Robert H. Albrecht, a Princeton employee who had come to New Year's Day, had submitted his resignation to the Mayor. This past Monday morning Mr. Albrecht reported for duty in Hamilton, N.Y., (Princeton College University), where he had previously served as city engineer for some 14 years.

Mr. Albrecht, an R.P.I. alumnus with a distinguished engineering background that included some 22 years of public and industrial experience, had been hired as the late Henry Kenarson's replacement when, in the waning days of 1958, with Mr. Riker's approval, and on the understanding that he would succeed Mr. Riker some time in 1959. His letter of resignation was not made public.

Riker Resume. The Cornell-trained Borough Engineer, who served for the record in the late summer of 1930 that became "a year or so away from retirement", has played a conspicuous role in the development of the Township through from the WPA years of 1930's (which endowed the Borough with a million dollar nestegg in the form of

The first few days of March had seen the month act more like a lamb than a lion and that, the Nassau people would be surprised to learn, will not be the case for the next few days, at least.

Possible showers Thursday night and early Friday, clearing thereafter. Generally mild throughout the four-day period.

About that March blizzard, he had no comment, but did mention something about precipitation for 1958 being well below normal to date.

The car struck an embankment on the left side of the road and rolled over, landing on its wheels 75 feet away. Miss Pessel was admitted to Mercer Hospital with a fractured jaw and cuts on her head, face, and left arm. A student at Miss Fine's School, she is the daughter of Dr. Johannes F. Pessel, medical director of Mercer Hospital. Patrolman Kathleen issued a ticket for careless driving.

DRAMA AT THE INTIME

"Tragedy Runs the Gamut. All the nightmarish intricacies of Elizabethan drama appear to be present in the 17th Century play, "The Revenger's Tragedy," which the Theatre Intime opens at Murray Hall this Thursday at 8:30. Headed by a cast of are Kathy Kelly and Nan Rickert, both known to Princeton audiences and graduate students. Robert Wright and Joseph Koenig.

The play said to have been seen before in this country, follows to some extent a "Hamlet" theme with elements of hate and corruption which tend to make the audience shudder with fear. The ingenious and complicated story follows the plottings of Vendice, the revenger.

For more information, contact the Intime president, Dick Fawcett, or the Princeton Elizabethan sets and costumes are the work of Paul Glicker and Margot Berk. Tickets for the play which runs through March 14 are available at the University Store and at the box office night-

AN EVENING OF SANDBURG Poet Coming March 25. Dana Productions, the undergraduate group spearheaded by Carl Sandburg, seems to have "done it again" with its choice of attractions. The poet will appear in Alexander Hall at 8:30 and 9:30 and two sets of short plays for the evening have already been sold according to William Lockwood, a member of the Dana group. Remaining tickets are available at the University Store or 20 Camp Street by mail.

"An Evening with Carl Sandburg" follows the two other successful offerings brought to Princeton by the Dana group: one show of Emmy Williams and the sold-out appearance of the Kingston Trio this Saturday.

'IOANNE' BY SAVOYARDS

St. Paul McCarter Theater. Savoyards' production will offer "Ioanthe," their first original production of a Gilbert and Sullivan opera. Under the direction of Munro Wade, it will be presented at the Princeton Center on April 11-12. Performances in Moore Hall are also planned.

Mr. Wade is well-known as a Princeton Community Player's director, and the author of three original musical comedies produced by the Princeton Players. He also served as director for the Princeton Players and the Trenton Junior League.

The cast for "Ioanthe" will be headed by Lee Bristol, Jr., a Savoyard veteran, playing the Lord Chancellor, one of Gilbert and Sullivan's most difficult roles. Other past Savoyards now again playing leading parts are William Lockwood and Ben Trueluck. Charles Bartoletti with sing the part of the "Pope Quack." Other newcomers to the organization are Ruth Bent, Terry Bailey and Sheldon Simon.

Musical rehearsals under the supervision of Helen Olson of the Choir College are already in progress for the opera is scheduled for April 24, 1959 and May 2.

THE PLAINHOUSE

I Want to Live (March 27) is a searing quasi-documentary of the San Francisco murder trial and eventual execution of B-girl Barbara Graham in 1950. The straight documentary aspects of the film, however, are permitted to obscure the fact that Hollywood has decided Miss Graham was not guilty as accused. This is a highly-charged film, indeed, which goes beyond the specific events of a single case to comment acidly on the whole practice of capital punishment. In the final scenes, while all appeals have failed but the movie-goer is convinced of Miss Graham's innocence, the macabre procedure of legalized killing is presented in horrifying detail.

MUSIC In Princeton

EARLY MUSIC PLAYED

Pro Musica Heard Monday. "You alone can perform such wonders," reads the text of a "Tu Solus" written by a group of Pro Musica members on Monday night by members of Pro Musica. The audience of enthusiasts at McCarter Theater may well have felt that the line could have been written to describe Pro Musica itself because the flawless, polished performance of these musicians is surely unique within the field.

The field, of course, is Medieval and Renaissance music. Members of Pro Musica are as versatile musically as their Renaissance ancestors, as their polished performance of these musicians is surely unique within the field.

Charles Broesler, the tenor, plays the portative organ and sings, the same composition. Betty Wilson, one of the two sopranos, plays a tenor recorder, sings a few measures and returns to play recorder again. She also plays a enchanting little cymbal, to her thumb, to her middle finger, one to her middle finger.

Other singers play drums, shake tambourines and ring bells. The recorder players, in deference to McCarter's size, used amplifiers on their instruments.

The music for Monday night's concert was selected from early Flemish composers and the Renaissance music of Spain. The range extended from the sophisticated compositions of Giovanni da Palestrina to a bright and rhythmic Spanish Villancico in which a wife tells her husband to give her a hug and kiss and she will give him a clean shirt.

Visually as well as aurally the concert was fascinating. Watching Paul Ehrlich play his treble viol, an instrument he has made of a violin but held downward like a cello, watching Martha Blackman (an exquisite Renaissance beauty) do the curious neckknotting of the period, watching violin player, gave an added dimension of interest to a concert in which the music itself sustained a high level of interest.

This Renaissance music, so limpid and so finely spun for such a vigorous time, was performed on Monday night by people who took it seriously and did it well. Perhaps the outstanding performer was Russell Oberlin, the counterertenor, who projects his high, uncanny voice with an amazing clarity. Mr. Ehrlicher, the tenor, and Miss Wilson, the soprano were also outstanding.

In supporting roles, Bernard Spivakovsky, violinist, and Paul Meynard, pianist and harpsichord, were nimble and precise. Soloists and instrumentalists were as well-matched and as perfectly joined as the devotedly joined Mr. Meynard's harpsichord.

FINAL CONCERT

Spivakovsky to Play. Tossy Spivakovsky, violinist, will give the final concert of the season in Series I Monday night at 8:30 in McCarter Theater. Lester Taylor will accompany him at the piano.

Mr. Spivakovsky came to Princeton after three concerts with the New York Philharmonic in which he played Roger Sessions' Violin Concerto. Both vis-

Concert Postponed

William Warfield's benefit concert for the Friendship Club was cancelled last Thursday at 11:30; just nine hours before the baritone was scheduled to appear in McCarter Theater.

Through the medium of the campus station, WPRB, two Trenton stations, WTTM and WTCA, and the telephone, persons who had purchased tickets were notified of the last-minute cancellation and the only people who appeared at McCarter were a few cut-out-towners who live outside the network of communications.

Mr. Warfield had been on tour and was ill when he returned to Princeton last Wednesday night. After his manager had cancelled the Princeton concert, the baritone sent the following telegram to The Friendship Club:

"Extremely sorry my sincere regret to the Friendship Club and Princeton audience for inconvenience. Illness prevented concert tonight, doctor forbids going out. Many thanks for everything. Will be back to sing for you March 26."

Tickets for last Thursday's concert will be honored on Thursday, March 26. There are still a few tickets available. They are on sale at The University Store.

Unit and Concerto were acclaimed by music critics.

For his Princeton concert, Mr. Spivakovsky will play Mozart's Adagio in E Major, Op. 26 with a solo violin; H. C. Spina's "Sally"; Bach's Partita in D Minor for unaccompanied violin; Bartok's Sonata No. 2 for Violin and Piano, and Brahms' Sonata in D Minor, Opus 102.

COMBINED CONCERT

By Princeton, Sarah Lawrence Groups. Works by Debussy and Mozart which have not been performed before in Princeton will be featured at the forthcoming joint concert by the Princeton University Glee Club and the Sarah Lawrence College Chorus. The concert will be given in Alexander Hall next Friday, March 15, at 8:30 p.m.

The Debussy work is "La Domestique Elite" (The Servant-Damsel), which uses a French translation of the Rosetti poem. It will be sung by the Sarah Lawrence Chorus conducted by Harold Altschuler. The Princeton Glee Club, the two groups will sing nearly all the choruses and some of the solos from "Idomeno" an opera rarely performed because of its casting and staging difficulties.

The program will also include —Continued on Page 8

RUGS AND SWATCHES

At New Shop. The Home Furnishing Shop, newly opened at 41 Witherspoon, offers a pleasant shop place to browse while you try to decide which style of fabric to choose for spring re-covering. And while the surroundings may be pleasant, the decision will not be easy because the Shop has a very well selected library of samples to choose from.

The store incidentally, has been completely redecorated, with red wood paneling at the show windows, and carpeting, carpet in sculptured striations and flat-topped table on which you will find the latest issues of all the decorating magazines. You can sit here all day if you want to.

In the fabric department, you may examine everything from old favorites to prints so new they are still unknown from abroad. One new print, for example, is done on coarsely woven natural linen.

It displays a large group of carnations and dogwood blossoms in a manner that is Japanese without being wispy. There is a matching print exactly like it, but executed on chintz. The combination of the two fabrics makes a subtle texture contrast.

Chintz again — this time in an old-fashioned print that belongs in a charming little cottage. Its small bouquets of blue roses have been arranged in a tidy and symmetrical manner on cream ground.

For a more sophisticated room, choose a cotton print of marmosets, monkeys and grass as a tones of brown and gold. Or a striking linon print that arranges oblongs of solid, natural color with oblongs of flowers in a brief pattern. (The flowers are dusty shades of blue, pink and olive).

Variety in price and style is a feature of Home Furnishings, by the way. Next to the simple cotton fabrics, with see-through look at $30 a yard, exclusive cut velvets like the one with tiny gold medallions arranged against a background of gold silk, or the trim of aqua velvet against green. Beautiful for a formal little French chair.

The shop also sells rugs, of course, and in the little alcove where rug samples are displayed, you'll find swatches of imported velvets, cotton twists, sisal and the finest chenille from the looms of James Templeton in Scotland.

Owners of The Home Furnishing Shop are Bernard Cooke, well-known for his upholstery work, and Sam Bahadurian who is a rug expert. Their matched talents go together like silk and velvet.

Hitching Post. Over on Palmer Square West is another new shop. This one has just started especially for husky boys. These little fellows who are just as tall as anybody else size 12, but who are much too big around to wear standard size clothes.

There are certain indecent persons, peers of these guys, largely, who refer to them as "fat". At the new shop, which is called The Hitching Post, they are "husky". Nobody ever, ever, ever will use the word "fat" in this shop.

The Hitching Post is located at 63 Palmer Square West. It is operated by The Junior and Prep Shops down the street, and this means that you will find at the new place the same quality

A Time For Caution

The trade mark of the new Hitching Post shop for huskies on Palmer Square is, understandably enough, a hitching post boy.

He is a copy of an old post, and he stands about four feet tall. He has been sturdy made out of cast iron, and he must weigh well, he'd qualify as a husky by anybody's table of weights and measures.

It was suggested to Walter S. Servis, who owns the shop and the hitching post, that his trade mark should really be outside on the sidewalk, not inside on top of a cabinet.

"Old fashioned," Mr. Servis explained, "because I think the best soundin' kid could find it put in his room. If I put it outside, I'd be gone before I got back in the shop."

and styling you find at the parent shop.

There are various chenille suits, slacks of dacron and wool or various other fabric combinations and some excellent new sports jackets in a hopsacking composed of duck, duck and cashmere. All these clothes are cut with the husky in mind.

The length, inseam, is the length the boy needs. But the belt, for one thing, has been greatly expanded to take care of the husky's girth. In the past, many out-size boys have had to wear men's slacks which have been cut off at the leg. This means a perfectly dreadful fit, the comfort, of course, adds to the self-consciousness of a boy who has too much to be self-conscious about already.

Clothes and styles at The Hitching Post are conservative but not bankerish. Sports jackets are charcoal green, charcoal grey, charcoal wine. Slacks are the usual greys, browns and chinos. You can't come away empty-handed, too, because the shop also stocks large sizes in underwear. The new husky shop has been treated to lots of pine furniture and cabinets with a background of bright paint. There's a dandy wallpaper mural of New York's Bowling Green in the 1840's and it provides the backdrop for a cast iron hitching post boy, bright in a uniform of red and white.

Customers of the Junior Shop will be glad to learn that Dave Thornton, formerly with the Juniors, will be at The Hitching Post.

Of Cabbages . . . Needlepoint, usually a dcorous kind of embroidery in which you fill in bouquets, is now a dcorous kind of embroidery in which you fill in cabbages.

At The Knitting Shop on Tullane Street, there is a collection of six grosgrain patterns which feature vegetable motifs like carrots. You may want your way around corn ears, eggplant, squash and grapes. Or asparagus, red peppers, pea pods and mushrooms. Or cabbage, radishes, blackberries and pea pods. Or carrots, cauliflower, tomatoes and plums.

All this is not nearly so alarming as it sounds. The colors are bright but not obtrusive and the patterns would really be delightful in a summer room.

We also liked some needlepoint samplers that say "A New Broom Sweeps Clean" and "Sin Not!"

Mothers and daughters may do a sister act in a new white "Salzburg" sweater. This bulky cardigan with silver buttons has open embroidery on red, blue, yellow and green. You knit from a kit, in any girl's or woman's size.

Brothers and sisters wear a cardigan that matches. The hat is white wooden beads, and sister's has square wooden beads sewn on in a diamond pattern all over the sweater.

For dress, make yourself a bulky white cardigan and applique on it a big spray of roses in black velvet and net. (Blue, pink, navy or toast velvet if you prefer.)

You can choose the kit or buy a knit-a-sweater from Italian mohair in shades like avocado, peach, gold, royal or rust. Italian mohair is furrier than French mohair and comes in a wider range of colors.

Silk crepe yarn comes in eight terry-colored and Swiss sport yarn comes in a soft, baschet twill that only exhibits a fleck every two or three inches. This is called Knicker yarn and there are 11 colors to choose from. Cotton and English wool yarn, not baschet at all, comes in worsted weights for bulkies. It's Glengarry, in brown, tan, two navy and green.

For summer, make yourself something in Swiss straw yarn. It's not stiff and prickly at all, but very supple, and it has flecks of woven-in pastel shades.

You might also look at Cymalon, a yarn that looks like beginner's tatting. It is 90 per cent voluminous acetate, whatever that is, and 10 per cent nylon and consists of a strand of yarn that has little loops every now and then, apparently at random.

$7 MILLION EXPANSION

In South Brunswick, Kendall Builders Inc. will start construction this year on a $7-million building program in South Brunswick Township. The program includes homes, schools, utilities and a shopping center.

It will be the most ambitious building program ever undertaken by the firm, which has erected more than 3,000 homes in the past six years in Mercer, Middlesex and Monmouth counties. The firm's president, Harry Kendall, of Princeton, sold 350 homes, priced from $15,490 to $17,990, will be erected this year at the New Kendall Park community in Franklin Lakes.

The total volume of this construction will be $5.9 million, he said. An additional $500,000 will be spent for the construction of an 18-hole golf course. The proposed 20-acre shopping center, which will include 22 stores, a 32-lane bowling alley and a 550-car

Approximately 28,000 young men and women from all over the United States competed in the contest.

Peter was born in Hungary and came to this country in 1946. He is a senior at Princeton High School where he serves as chairman of a physics and mathematics club which he helped to organize. HOMEMAKERS ON CALL

Training Completed by Six. The Princeton Homemaker Service, inspired last fall by a Kiwanis Club contest, now has six home-makers (including three Princeton women) ready to work in homes temporarily disrupted by illness. The week-long training program was conducted under the supervision of the Rutgers University extension division, and included courses in working with people, accident prevention, understanding children, the duties of the relationship of homemaker and the sick patient, and agency procedures.

All the home-makers are mature women trained and experienced in taking care of the home. The service would like to train six more and asks that those interested contact the Princeton Community Homemaker Service Inc., P.O. Box 201.

Mrs. Harold Sonnenberg of Columbus, the service's executive director, is available by telephone Monday through Friday from 1 to 5 at WA 4-5815 to handle requests. She emphasizes that the homemaker is not a substitute for the services of the family doctor, and are on call Monday through Friday. They are available four to eight hours a day at $1.25 an hour (a cost is borne by the family).

About half the $4000 sought to finance the administrative costs of the service in 1958 have been raised. Contributions should be made payable to the Princeton Community Homemaker Service Inc., and sent to P.O. Box 201.

BOARD MEMBERS NAMED
By Chapin School. Harold B. Erdman of 539 Princeton-Kingston Road, and Lawrence E. Benson of Providence Avenue Road, Skillman, were elected members of the board members of the Chapin School. Mrs. Hyman L. Battle Jr. and Dr. Robert S. Garber were re-elected to one-year terms.

Schedule to serve for year are Amos End, re-elected chairman of the board; Dr. L. Ashby Adams, named vice-chairman; Mrs. Baude, re-elected secretary, and Norton C. Smith, re-elected treasurer. Other members of the board include: Mrs. Richard S. Conger, Mrs. Ralph Rotenham, H. Stewart Peyton, G. Victor Davis and Bryce Herford.

The following letter was sent to the Honorable Milton Cunningham, Mayor of Hightstown; the Honorable E. H. Adler, Mayor of Hopewell; and the Honorable Tunis Conover, Mayor of East Windsor Township.

This letter is being published for the information of the citizens of these municipalities.

PRINCETON HOSPITAL

PRINCETON, NEW JERSEY

March 2, 1959

My dear Mayor:

For a number of years, representatives of the Princeton Hospital have, on behalf of this institution or the Hospital Council of Mercer County, requested adequate support from your municipality for the care of our medically and socially indigent.

We understand that you have again provided in your budget only a token appropriation toward the care of such patients. We have also been informed that the Chosen Board of Freeholders of the County of Mercer has refused any increase in the County appropriation for hospitals on the basis that the individual municipalities have an equal responsibility as part of their responsibility. This is true of every municipality in the County, with the exception of Princeton Borough, Princeton Township and West Windsor Township.

Princeton Hospital is thus faced with another year of inadequate relief. We have again urged your needy patients. We are not in a financial position to meet these costs and we are not going to ask the residents of Princeton to continue to subsidize your municipality. We therefore request that, unless you and your Council are fit to take emergency steps to provide the maximum relief which is permitted under the law, within 90 days from the date of this letter, we will be unable to render inpatient or outpatient services to the medically and socially indigent residents of your municipality.

The contents of this letter are being published in the local newspapers for the full information of the residents of your municipality.

Representatives of this institution stand ready to meet with you on this subject at any time.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN H. WALLACE, JR.

A QUARTER-SIZED PROBLEM: Alfred B. Shuster (left), a sales executive, and Dr. Luther P. Eisenhart, Dean Emeritus of Princeton University Graduate College, discuss the Borough Council's proposal to install 25-cent parking meters in the Princeton Station area. Mr. Shuster said, "The metered to death as it is." See below for other opinions on the proposal. (Photo by Alan Richards)

Question of the Week

QUESTION: Do you agree with the Borough Council's decision to install parking meters in the station area? Do you feel the meters will clear up the traffic problem in this area?

LOCATION: Princeton Station and around town.

Alfred B. Shuster, 315 Ewing Street, sales executive. No, we have been having trouble with cars all day. I don't think there is a parking problem at the station. If the meters are installed, I'll probably have my wife drive me to the station.

David Barnes, 256 Russell Road, manager. We do not agree with the Council's proposal. The alleged chaos exists in an area separate and distinct from the McCarter curbside. The yellow lines have been several weeks ago. I believe safe parking boundaries should clear up the problem — if enforced. The 20-minute limit directly in front of the station should be enforced. The installation of meters we proposed would not solve the problem where it exists. It would, however, be profitable.

George F. Brown, 287 Edgerstone Road, sales executive. I think it's a reasonable thing. It would be a good idea to provide for commuters' cars, then I think it's reasonable to charge for them. But I think just as many people will travel by car, I don't think it will do much for the traffic situation.

Wilt Bascom, 351 Hickey Court, editor. I think it's inevitable that they would decide to take advantage of the parking for income. Whether it will clear up the problem, I don't know. I hope so, but I think there will still be a problem on the other side of the street.

Karl D. Pettit Jr., 104 Bayard Lane, investment broker. I wouldn't know if it will solve the traffic problem, but it's an extreme hardship on the commuters. I don't go for it. With the railroad fares up, commuters to New York or Philadelphia already spend $35 a month for commuting. Add in a quarter a day for parking and it gets up pretty high.

James A. Perkins, 256 Edgerstone Road, Carnegie Foundation executive. I don't have a very sound basis for judgment since I work in the city, but it sounds to me like an inevitable thing since they have started charging at the Junction. It seems to me the only way to clear up the jam down there. Will it be successful? Darned if I know.

Thoughts On Meters

Commuters who have been parking their cars at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station since the installation of parking meters at the Princeton Junction and at the target of registration proposed by the Borough Council. The Council, as part of a general plan to clear up congestion on University Place, plans to install $3,500 worth of meters on the McCarter Theater side of the station area, Irons College Road to Alexander Street.

The proposal would offer all-day parking to commuters for 25 cents, the same rate charged at the Junction and at the Trinity Church parking lot. Commuters and other interested residents will have an opportunity to express their thoughts on the proposed ordinance at Tuesday's Council meeting. One question by Town Topics this week indicated strong support for the measure by some residents. All residents feel the decision "inevitable." (For an additional view, see Mailbox, page 15.)

Dessa M. Skinner Jr., 104 Library Place, banker. Since they put the meters out at the Junction, a lot of people have been parking at Princeton station. Now I guess they'll go back to the Junction and that should help the problem. I haven't had an opportunity to read the Council's decision yet, so I'd hesitate to say whether it's good or bad.

Princeton's quota for 1958 was 22 per cent over the quota for 1958, largely due to the need for resettling thousands of refugees from Rumania.

Meter Installation Attacked
To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The proposed installation of parking meters on the west side of University Place between College Road and Alexander Street should be recognized as what it is: a discriminatory tax to be levied upon the areas where people who park their automobiles near the station while using the train.

Were the parking meters to be used to induce needed turnover, or used in an effort to park a yard in defiance of the cost of establishment, and maintenance, they could be justified. Since neither of these purposes can be responsible, nor new dimensions to be imposed nor a new accommodation to be offered in the immediate area in which the meters are to be placed—its purpose can be only to tap a dependable source of revenue. This is improper, if not illegal.

If the Council wishes to remedy the chaotic situation in which a significant station and the Dohm & Kerr garage, the only solution is the inauguration and enforcement of no-parking regulations in that area. The area along the curb on University Place, the side of the street corner, can be said to be an integral part of any such plan, since with meters the automobiles would be parked there in the same manner and for the same length of time as at present.

It certainly would be out of character for the Council to impose such a discriminatory tax. Fortunately, the March 10 hearing offers everyone the opportunity to express their opposition to this most obnoxious form of taxation.

SPORTS In Princeton

SEASON NEARS END

Winter Sports at Climax. Although March may bring the most exciting basketball games, that doesn't mean thoughts of spring a staggering blow, the calendar says that the winter sports season is virtually over. A swimming game was postponed Saturday at 2 remains on the schedule, and the final swimming meet of the year will be staged with Army in Dilworth Pool at 3 p.m.

Inter-collegiate tournaments in squash, fencing, wrestling and swimming remain to be held, with the first-mentioned for Dartmouth College this Friday and Saturday. Princeton sophomore Steve Vehslage is among those given a good chance of winning the title.

Basketball Race Tight. When Princeton and Dartmouth went into their final games this weekend in fine shape with identical 12-1 records, it marked the first time in 57 years of Ivy action that two teams had come down to the wire with such high winning percentages. In other seasons, marks of 11-3, and even 10-4 have been good enough to win the Ivy title. The championship percentage on record is .667 with which Dartmouth won in 1938, when an 8-4 season was good enough to take the pennies without resort to a playoff.

Havending opened the defending champion Indians, 60 to 67 on Friday and followed up with a 75-72 victory over Harvard while Dartmouth was turning back Penn at Philadelphia. Princeton was looking forward this week to a third meeting with the Green, but bringing in the Tigers had to do without Penn in the Palestra Wednesday night while Dartmouth was playing host to Brown at Hanover.

If the Orange and Black can duplicate the brand of basketball it played in January, a 16-point deficit to Dartmouth last week, will top the highly-capable Indians for a second time this season. Such an achievement would give Captain Cappone's forces the fourth title in a decade more than any other Ivy entry has been able to achieve.

From a 17-10 deficit early in the first half, the Tigers moved to tie complete charge of the vital contest. The visitors were still even at 44-44 when Princeton's Joe Burns, with 58 seconds to jump to an insurmountable 73-59 when Joe Burns caged a pair of foul shots at the 15-minute mark.

This seven-minute stretch saw Jim Brongan hit for 10 of the 20 points made by the Tigers, and his seven for nine shooting average was a major factor in the team's 30 percent credited to the visitors in the final half. Brongan's dead-eye final performance forced Dartmouth to switch from a zone defense to the more adept Princetonians steadily widened the gap as the clock ran out.

Carl Belz played with Princeton on Sunday, having come to the big Indian's 28, but was even more valuable in reversing the trend on rebounds and at the foul line. Dartmouth paid the price as Dartmouth lost the defeat at Hanover; last week, Belz sank 10 foils in the first half alone, the team made 25 of 31 and led the losers in rebounds, 16 to 37.

In both games last weekend, Princeton's ability to shoot an all-court press and to force a when-wanted was essential aid much to bring victory. Neither the agile Chuck Kaufman of Dartmouth nor Harvard's veteran George Harrington could handle Art Kline's

Playoff in New Haven

If a playoff is needed to determine the winner of the Ivy basketball championship this year, it will be held Saturday night at the Yale's Payne Whitney Gymnasium.

The Ivy Victor automatically qualifies for the district NCAA tournament, to be played next Saturday at New Haven's Madison Square Garden. Princeton and Dartmouth began the week in a first-place tie and each had a game to play Saturday. Princeton sophomore Steve Vehslage is among those given a good chance of winning the title.

with a 6-2 triumph over Brown at Hanover.

If the Tigers are at what amounts to full strength for them Saturday (Pete Cook back as firstline center and Eddie Gerbig, the new captain) they have a chance of upsetting the league-leaders. A sizeable Jumbo Prom crowd will be on hand to lend support.

Last Friday saw a 3-2 victory for Yale at New Haven and a 3-0 whitewash of Cornell here. The outcome left the team in fifth place, with a need for getting early results in Wednesday's game at Cambridge or the finale against Dartmouth to lift itself over third-place Brown.

The contest at New Haven was productive of 21 penalties, 13 of them (including a pair of misconducts against Princeton). The Tigers were in trouble in the middle and a disputed goal which the officials ruled out on the theory that Johnny McBride had batted it in with his glove caused a sizeable ruckus just before the game ended. Lance Odden, Princeton resident, had 16 stitches taken to close a cut on his face after he had come in contact with a stick.

McBride, Pete Cook and Captain Mo Chestnut did the scoring against Cornell, with reserve goals by Mike Michel earning credit for the shutout. It was desultory hockey from start to finish, but a moral victory for the losers. In eight Ivy games this season, they had yielded 90 goals while scoring only nine.

PHS QUINTET SPLITS

As 4-15 Season Ends, Basketball becomes a matter of the past this year for Princeton High School and few regrets were voiced over the fact that the end of the schedule was at hand. Beset by numerous problems from start to finish, the Tigers managed to win only four of their 19 games and in losing their finale to Trenton High Monday were debited with a minimum scoring output that had not been matched in some years.

This racked up 80 points in rolling to its 18th and final victory of the 1958-59 season. In contrast, Princeton High could account for only 24 and in the eight long minutes of the third quarter, scored only three.

The opening moments on the Trenton court were the best as the Blue and Gold got off to a fast start to a short-lived 6-5 advantage. But it was 16-8 after one round, 32-14 by intermission-time and when the Tornado quintet triumphed in 27 points to the losers' three during the second half, the contest bogged down into a real rout.

The news was better from Hightstown last weekend, as PHS jumped into the lead and has never looked back. The 50-42 triumph avenged an unexpected defeat by the neighboring Mercer County team. Last Saturday Jim Bartlett was the Little Tigers' standout as he dominated the rebounding with 17 and collected 16 points. Jack Hawking, up from the jags, celebrated his promotion with 13 points.

The PHS reserves topped their Hightstown counter-parts, 61-45. Jack Lackey set the pace with a fine total of 25.

JOE BURNS

Tiger Basketball Player

After virtually every one of the 23 basketball games Princeton played this season, the spotlight was on either Carl Belz or Jim Brangan. One or the other was almost inevitably the highest scorer and each steadily averaged around 18 or 19 points to dominate the cumulative statistics.

There is no doubt, however, that the Tigers would have been well along the line of the first place tie with Dartmouth in which they began the week had not been for the less spectacular play of Joe Burns. Time and again, the 6'5 red-head earned in rebound rebounds—performances—often when Belz required vital support in this key role.

This was particularly true in both Ivy road games contests in which Princeton battled the effects of proximity to the home-and-home series with Dartmouth. Burns' ability to grab more than his share of rebounding in both games with the Crimson was a major factor in avoiding a stunning upset.

Last Friday, Dartmouth came in to Dinkin Gym and won its 15-game winning streak an bolstered by the knowledge that it had hung a 12-point defeat on Princeton in the teams' first meeting a week earlier. Ability to get the jump on the Orange and Black would leave the home team with a major mental obstacle to overcome.

Before a packed gymnasium, Burns got the Tigers their first seven points: an overhanded jump shot, a pretty lay-up, and then another free throw. When the Indians staged a typical surge and racked up 17 points in the first seven minutes, Princeton trailed by seven but was still within hailing distance because Burns was hot the moment he started in.

The big Princetonian played fast above his season's average in both crucial contests, account for the points against Dartmouth, and 18 against Harvard—in contrast to a season-long average prior to these games of 11.2. His rebounding, despite the fact that both Harvard and Dartmouth had two taller players, was at a similar peak.

As basketball replaces the indoor season, Burns has signed up for his third season as a starting pitcher on the Tiger baseball nine. With red-headed Herne Belz, he'll form a one-two combination that should make Princeton a firm contender for the Ivy title in this sport, too.

Jack Haughton, chairman of the Post No. 76 Junior Baseball Committee, said that any number of boys may sign up, but that league rules require the team to cut its roster to below the open limit of 18 on June 3. Boys who sign up must agree to stay with the team for the entire season, he said.

The same place for tryouts will be announced shortly, Haughton said. Paid umpires and scorekeepers for games are provided by the league.

BOWLING NOTES

Fire League Knoes, Kingston added four wins this week to surge into a 28-all first-place tie with Princeton Company No. 1 in the "B" League. Firemen's League, which had been in the running, lost to the Fire Department Center. Bells Mound posted six victories, increasing its total to 26, to take over undisputed possession of third place. The loop's individual stars were: Buckle Cupples, 222; Fred Slatoff, 224-204; and Stan Tantum, 217.

As the "B" League race entered its third round, Cifilli Electric, which finished fifth in the second round, was unable to jump to an early lead. Five teams—National Guard, Maul Electric, Glennmor, Windsor Oil and FMC—were declared out of the running, but with four victories apiece. Moss Arromani, 226; Bob Sapel, 225; and Russ Mantell, 211, were high-scoring individuals.
